FRIDAY, JUNE 25, 1920

It may be a fact worthy of note that most patriots hunger for office.

Silence is a virtue a lot of people show no inclination to cultivate.

YOUNGSTOWN

At the annual convention of the Ohio State Automobile Association in Zanesville last week this city was selected as the place for holding next year's convention.

Thomas H. Wells, scion of an old and wealthy family, has begun proceedings in Trumbull county courts to obtain a divorce from his wife, Stasia Welsh Wells.

The annual picnic in observance of St. John's Day was held by local Masons at Idora park, Thursday.

One runaway team damaged seven automobiles in South Watt street on Saturday.

Henry Niedermeier, 71, for many years one of the city's most prominent contractors, died at his home here on Saturday.

Dr. C. D. Hauser, prominent local surgeon, and Miss Marie Larson of Wisconsin were married in Cleveland last week.

The Citizen, D. Web Brown's flourishing weekly, has just completed its fifth year.

Proposed increase of 60 cents per thousand for the first thousand feet and proportionate increases for amounts in excess of that quantity, have been filed with the State Utilities Commission by the Pennsylvania & Ohio Electric Co., producers of artificial gas.

O. L. Reed, formerly superintendent of the Louisville, Ky., schools, has been elected local superintendent from among fifty candidates as successor to Dr. Chaney, retired.

Local officials continue to seize with great regularity and frequency quantities of booze enroute through the city.

During the week three men who are charged with stealing automobiles locally have been apprehended and returned from nearby cities.

Charles Kimberly, world war veteran, despondent because of continued ill health, caused by having been gassed, committed suicide by taking poison in St. Elizabeth's hospital, Sunday.

The loop plan for handling street cars to relieve present congestion and facilitate the movement of a larger number of cars is being studied.

The number of pupils in local schools last year, according to the census just completed, is in excess of 30,000.

Judge Jenkins has refused to o. k. the sale of the building of the defunct Struthers Bank to Mayor Wilson of that village for $32,000, as he believes it should bring a higher price and has instructed the representative of the state bank examiner to again advertise for bids.

The Bell Telephone Co. has refused city officials further toll service because of the failure to pay bills due. The fund for this purpose is exhausted.

NORTH JACKSON

June 23—Grace Jones spent the past week with Warren friends.

Marie Gallagher has returned from school near Columbus, where she has been a student for several years.

Frank Howard is being treated by a Youngstown specialist.

Mrs. Zelma Kistler and children of Warren spent Wednesday here.

Mrs. Mary Herner, who visited relatives here the past week, has returned to Warren.

Children's Day exercises in the Christian church next Sunday evening.

Rev. Klotz, formerly of this place, was circulating among old friends on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Howard are visiting Will Bush and family.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the Christian church will meet at the home of Mrs. Stouffer next Thursday.

The condition of Mrs. Lizzie Carna is slightly improved.

Mrs. Greenwalt of Cleveland attended the funeral of her sister here, Tuesday.

Marguerite Blott of Warren is visiting her sister, Mrs. Russell.

A miscellaneous shower was given at the home of Ed Noble on Saturday evening for the bride of her son Paul.

Charles Best and family spent Sunday in Canton.

The Manchester Co. of Canfield roofed the new garage of Chauncey Buck on Tuesday.

Mrs. Sarah Clemens died at her home on Friday evening at the age of 84 years, after a very long illness.

Her daughter, Mrs. Klingensmith, preceded her in death several years ago. Services were held Tuesday at the North church.

Last Night's Dreams

—What They Mean

DID YOU DREAM OF FLOATING?

DREAMS of floating are closely allied to dreams of flying, though probably not so common. Investigators who seek for a physical cause for dreams explain them as they do dreams of falling—by the skin becoming so highly insensitive that all impression of the support of the bed is lost. But falling and floating are sensations so diametrically opposite that the explanation is not convincing. Nearly all the scientific investigators regard dreams of floating as purely mental, or psychic, in their origin and Greenwood says: "Every physiologist who, to the best of his ability, marks out the seat of mind and traces the various communications of the senses with the cerebral spinal center, knows at every moment that when he has completed his exposition he will have thrown no light on the mental faculties themselves, nor have followed them a single step into the fields they work in." And further: "If credulity stifles the mind, skepticism is a kind of cramp; nor can there be much doubt that it is felt by many who boast of it as a high sort of freedom."

The mystic interpretation of a dream of floating in the air is that it is a favorable omen, unless you suddenly lose your buoyancy in which case there is unexpected trouble ahead of you. If you should dream that you are floating in water it is also a sign of good business and much comfort awaiting you provided the water is clear. If it is muddy look out for hidden enemies and prepare for a struggle. The "occult" followers of the teaching of Madame Blavatsky regard this dream as an evidence of the existence of the "astral body." But, according to Ellis, Caesar de Vesme, who edits the French "Annals of Psychological Research," after an elaborate investigation, declares it to be, like the flying dream, "a purely psychological phenomenon and no evidence of the astral body's existence." In this case the mystics would appear to be about as satisfying as, and much more definite than, the scientists.

Mother's Cook Book

"Babies are not all born free and equal; some come into the world buoyed up with the mental and physical traits that they have inherited from moral, healthy ancestors; others weighted down by the degrading predilections and physical deformities transmitted by weak and sinful progenitors."

All children should be born free and equal, but the sad fact remains that they are not.

Simple Economical Dishes.

When not too rich, a pudding is wholesome and takes the place of pastry or cake more difficult to make as well as digest.

Creamy Rice Pudding.

Take one-half cup of well washed rice, one quart of sweet milk, one-half cupful of sugar, one-half cupful of raisins, a pinch of salt. Bake slowly until the rice is done and it is of a creamy consistency. Flavor with nutmeg or any preferred flavor and serve hot with hard sauce.

Spice Pudding.

Take one-half cupful of good molasses, one-quarter cupful of shortening, one-half cupful of sour milk, one-half teaspoonful of soda, salt and spice, one and one-half cupfuls of flour, one-half cupful of seeded raisins; place in a pudding dish in a steamer and steam two hours. Serve with any kind of favorite sauce.

Suet Pudding.

Take one cupful of chopped suet, one cupful of sweet milk, one cupful of molasses, one cupful of chopped raisins, three cupfuls of flour, one teaspoonful of soda; steam two and one-half hours; serve with an egg sauce.

Pudding Sauce.

Take one-half cupful of sugar, one cupful of water, two teaspoonfuls of cornstarch and a pinch of salt; mix and cook until well done. Add a little butter, nutmeg or any flavoring extract and a tablespoonful of vinegar.

Brown Betty.

This may be made of any fruit, but chopped apple is the one most commonly used. Put a layer of buttered bread crumbs in a buttered baking dish, next a layer of apples, then a sprinkling of sugar, with a dusting of nutmeg or cinnamon; repeat until the dish is full. Add one-half cupful of water; bake in a moderate oven; serve with a sauce or cream and sugar.

Chicken Tamale.

Take one cupful of cornmeal, scald with one cupful of boiling water, add one tablespoonful of butter or bacon fat, one tablespoonful of onion juice, one cupful of tomato, three tablespoonfuls of oil, one cupful of cooked chicken chopped fine, one cupful of chopped stoned olives, four tablespoonfuls of catsup, cayenne pepper and salt to taste. Put in a buttered baking dish and bake half an hour.

SILENT WIVES' WOES.

London has been the center of some remarkable legal situations, but it is safe to declare that none of these has been more picturesque or more incredible than the recent divorce suit of a couple who lived in complete conjugal silence for four years. At the end of that period the lady in question decided that she had had enough of it. Her petition was dismissed, but to date there has been no reconciliation. An attentive public can now settle down to the prolonged delight of waiting for one of them to break the silence. The popular theory that women cannot remain silent is given a hard blow, but not necessarily a fatal one, by the fact that the wife was able to hold her tongue as long as she did. When she did come out of the silence, she declared that the lack of conversation had "wrecked her life." That she kept on doing the man's cooking, making his bed, and attending to the housework shows that hope was not dead within her, says Philadelphia Press. But the silent gentleman's tenacity did not wear out. It is significant that the cable dispatches carrying the story quoted the woman at considerable length, but the noiseless husband apparently made no comment.

It is, of course, true that the privilege of wearing military titles by courtesy has been abused by some and made ridiculous by others. That was the case after the Civil war, and it will happen again in the years to come, while the world war is turning from an actuality into history. The possibility—even the certainty—of this is no reason for abandoning a practice which, honestly and legitimately followed, gives an entirely innocent satisfaction to a great number of good people and works no real harm to anybody. If, as time goes on, a few colonels blossom out into generals, and more captains and majors into colonels, through their own forgetfulness or the generosity of neighbors, a kindly smile is about all the inaccuracy deserves in the way of comment. A military title that was well earned and bravely borne is a thing of glory—a thing to be valued in the future as it always has been in the past by all patriotic citizens. That jewels are sometimes stolen does not decrease their value—it is only another proof of value.

Many men now in comfortable circumstances remember how they laid the foundation of success by self denial, long hours and unremitting toil. They got their start by working early and late and by saving part of their small earnings. More of such pluck and perseverance and independence, which always find reward would be refreshing and encouraging at this time when too many people want much for little and spend profitably time trying to figure out how they can get the most for the least service.

The Parisian newspaper men are striking, for what we know not. If it be for more francs a week, they certainly ought to know it is not more, but better, francs they need. Of course, we realize that the high cost of snails and frogs must be awful in Paris.

The Austrian chancellor is going to Paris to make an appeal for food and fuel. A beggar for the necessities of life to her conquerors is the humiliating position of the ex-emperor which started the world war for the aggrandizement of herself and her ambitious ally.

War workers slated for wholesale dismissal may be pardoned if they look back with regret on the days when people were expected to open their homes to them and welcome any opportunity to take them on automobile rides.

In building castles in the air we may not be able to rise to them, but we can always fall from them.

CYCLONE SPEAKER FROM PACIFIC COAST COMING TO GREAT CHAUTAUQUA

"Avis Ye Dry Bones"—the subject of a lecture to be given on the Chautauqua program this summer, by J. C. Herberman, known on the Pacific coast for his dramatic instruction at the University of Washington, is not a bit less lively than the lecture itself.

Your Child's Eyesight

You are responsible for the sight of your child. Watch out for frowns, for squints, and when they read of look at picture books do they hold it too near or too far? These little things grow faster than the child, and in many cases can be overcome if discovered in time.

Especially insist on You Bringing the Children In.

Defects of vision never disappear of their own accord and in most cases they grow worse. It's a duty you owe your child, and I can prove by the test if I can fit them. which is free, and you don't have to help pay for some worthless instruments in the testing room. I don't want your money if I can't fit you. Come in.

BANKING EXPERIENCE

This institution has a banking history dating from the middle of the last century. The booms, panics and wars of the past seventy years provided it with a rich fund of experience which is a valuable asset in abnormal and chaotic times like these.

The backing of a bank is an important factor in business success. Its importance is in proportion to the bank's strength and experience.
